HOME CHILD

Does your horse "feel his oats"? What a difference between the grain-fed and the grass-fed horse! The first strong and full of ginger, the second flabby, weak and tired out before he begins. The feeding makes the difference.

Children are not alike either. One is rosy, bright-eyed, full of life and laughter, another is pale, weak and dull. The feeding again is responsible.

Sickly children need special feeding. They don't "feel their oats". Scott's Emulsion adds just the right richness to their diet. It is like grain to the horse. The child gets new appetite and strong digestion.

Scott's Emulsion is more than food. It is a strong medicine. It rouses up dull children, puts new flesh on thin ones and red blood into pale ones. It makes children grow. cott's Emulsion makes ordinary food do its

COMMON SENSE FOR WOMEN.

Ladies should Read of the Latest and Most Successful Importation from France

All womankind May Possess Bright Eyes, Fair Skin, Strongth and Good Health.

So says Dr. LaBord, the famous French-So says Dr. Labord, the laboration practioner who has devoted his whole life to the study of woman, and has won the highest distinction through his wonderfully successful practice among the first families of Paris.

WOMAN A HEROINE

Woman is a heroine, says the Doctor, and her remarkeble endurance and ability to withstand the most trying ordeal compels admiration. She is a slave to the Natural Modesty of her sex, which so often causes her to endue the greatest trials, and suffe in silence, rather—than consult ever her Family Physician, fearing to expose herself to necessary questioning and probable examination.

to necessary questioning and probable examination.

A LIFE STUDY.

Recognizing this fact early in his practice, Dr. LaBoard has, by years of study and close application, evolved an entirely new method of treatment for all allments peculiar to women, which has met with unbounded success, and his Branch Offices, managed by skilled physician's under his personal supervision are now located in every large city of Europe

By his superior methods each patient receives, absolutely free of charge, full and detailed advice especially adapted to her case, thus avoiding all embarrassment or inconvenience, and as Dr. LaBord's remedies are put up in the form of small, dainty wafer, they are easily carried and taken at any time or place, without attracting attention. This inpures regularity in treatment which is most important to a cure, and generally impossible with liquid remedies.

Liquid remedies always contain a large proportion of alcohol, whiskey or other inquors, to preserve them from spoiling. Dr. LaBord's Wafers are a "dry medicine" and are positively free from intexicants or narcotic drugs of any kind.

MODERN METHODS.

Dr. LaBord's greatest success Las been achieved by the use of the "Caronia" (commonly known as Black Hawberry), and other well known herbs, whose curative properties have been known to herbalists for centuries. "Viburnum," or "Caronia," is recognized and prescribed by the leading physicians of the world as the best known specific for Female troubles. The extremely its agreeable taste of these drugs has been overcome by skillful manipulation, retaining however all of their virtues and strength; and these specifics have been so combined and prepared as to form a dainty wafer easily taken, yet embodying the most accurate and certain cure for Female Weakness, Nervous Prostration, Painfal and Suppressed Menses, Irregularity, Lencorrhoea or Whites, Sterllity, Ulceration of the Uterus, Change of Life in Matron or Maid, Chronic Decline, Urinary Tryubles, Nervous Debility, Profuse Flow, Threatened Miscarlage, Palpitation of the Heart, Pains in the Left Side, Cold Hands and feet. WAY Ordeal of the Man in a Box

New York, December 4 .- The man who was discovered in the hold of the Hamburg-American steamer Palatia yesterday almost dead from having tried to make the trip across the ocean in a packing case recovered sufficiently in St. Mary's Hospital, at Hoboken, to be able to speak today of his frightful experience

Lying on his bed, the man sid his hame was John Beck. Between gasps for breath he told his story. He sp ke in mily good English' with a German accent.

"I was poor," he said. "in your country I thought I could make money and get a h. me but I had no meney to get across the ocean. Finally I thought out a way. I built a box and spent what money I had left for some 100d. "Then I went to the American Express officials in Hamburg and told them to go to my place and get a bex. I told them it contained a model.

"I went home and got into the box. When they took it away they did not know the difference, I had it shipped to Hotel Hungaris, in Union equare. N. w York, because I had heard of the men who own that place, and I thought if I got there I would be all right"

Becks first unp easant experience, he said, was when he was stowed away in the hold of the Palatia. He had been carted from the place where he lived on the third floor of a house in st Pau'i, a suburb of Hamburg, to the do k of the Hamburg-American Line There he was left for a time while other meacand se was loaded into the ship,s bold. Tuen workmen attached a chain to his box and he was lifted high up into the air. Ignorant that a man was in ide the box, the wharfman had fixed the chain that he bung head downward For what seemed to him an eternity he hung suspended over what he supposed was a hatchway, and as the box descended helest conscionsness.

Afterne recovered his senses L waited until all was quiet before be dared open the lid of his box and look out. He found himself on top of a lot of other boxes with only abut 18 inches between the top of his box and the deck that formed his roof.

At first everything went well with him, but a'ter the vessel got under headway he was taken violently seasick and did not get over this for several days. Besides the air was intensely close and it was bitterly cold, But chiefest of all his troubles were the rats.

"It was frightful the way they swarmed about me and my box," said be. "I supp te they were after my food and it seem d to me there must be millione of them. When I was in my Lox I could hear them running over and around it in droves. Every time I put my hand out there were rats on every side of me,,

Day 'y day' the bad air, the cold, lonelines-, seasickness, and the constant scurry ng of the rats told more and more on Beck,s vitality, until he sank under a state of coma that lasted for the last faw days of his trip until the opening of the batches to unlead the argo in Hoboken a lowed fresh arto rush into the hold. That revived h m so that he was able to murmurs

Through 16 days the man endured the cramped quarters, the dungeon like mprisonment. For 10 or more days he had the consolation of food and drink-Then come starvation and thiast. He suffered the torments of one buried alive. Lelpless in a cell' where the nois of the sea precluded the pos-ibility of his obtaining aid, he know that a few feet above him were men in the steerag. With no knowledge of the lapse of time, it stretched for him until the 10 days he expected to be penned up seemed to have dragged into months Starving, he yet craved water more than food' and gra lually the idea of relief became associated in his mind with the word water The packing case was six feet long. four feet high, and about three fewide' heavily built, like cases that ar used for valuable goods. On the lid in add tion to the inscription "J. B. 71, the work "Oben" was painted in red at each end of the case. It is the Germen for "this side up." There was also" Vorsicht," meaning bandle with care, and "Nicht stuerzer," which means' don't throw it down." Beck had provided against rough handling.

The wan had gotten out of the box by turning a button fastening inside the cover and then lifting that section of the case. It was hingeland fell back to one side, Near the case Back had had space in which to move around a few feet in the dark and the foul air.

The box was Beck's truck and larder as well as his living room Held close to thecover by a sort of false top were reveral suits of under wear and other personal effects. In a leather valise of the kind immigrants often carry lay at the bottom of the case more of the clothing, Beck had a good supply of garments, for he had two suits on had an overcoat beside him and also had the vallse full of clothes. For estables he had provided bread. sausage and sweetbreads; for drinking coffee, already repared' and having milk and sugar in it. Crumbs of bread and sauguages littered the hay and burlap bedlike arrangement that filled the bottom of the case. A can of sweetbreads spoiled, was in one corner. All around the edges between the hay and the side were stuck bottles that had held coffee.
